

Same Old Slang Line

*A parody of “Same Old Lang Syne,” recorded by Dan Fogelberg
(1 John 3:18)*

Dan Fogelberg’s “Same Old Lang Syne” recounts a story of a man who encounters in a grocery store a woman he had a relationship with long ago. The man and woman have gone different ways and with difficulty they renew their friendship.

The parody, “Same Old Slang Line” recounts a story of two men who meet in a Christian bookstore, one a missionary and the other a pastor. Like two people from an old romance, they have a long-standing but awkward relationship. In this account you see a glimpse of the challenge of missionary life.
